

GRANT WRITING WORKSHOP

for Faculty in the Humanities and Social Sciences

Friday, September 22, 2006

9:00 a.m. - Noon

Jones Room, Woodruff Library

Designed for faculty in the Humanities and Social Sciences, this workshop will discuss researching and writing proposals for submission to funding agencies. There will be presentations on how to search for funding sources, application procedures at Emory and on-line applications, how to write a good proposal, and how multidisciplinary granting committees read and evaluate proposals.

PROGRAM

Researching Grant Opportunities

Institutional Grants: How They Affect You and Why You Should Get Involved

How to Write a Proposal

Which Grant When? Supporting a Research Career

Human Subjects Research and the Institutional Review Board

How are they Read? Judging and Evaluating Research Proposals

Intensive Grant Writing Workshop for Faculty (March 2007)

A one-day intensive follow-up workshop, focusing on your proposal, is planned for March 2007. In order to be eligible for the spring workshop, you must attend the workshop on September 22 or have attended the Fall 2004 or 2005 faculty workshop.

This workshop will help you learn how to:

- support your research and writing
- write a successful proposal
- design an effective research project
- find funding sources
- gain professional skills and knowledge necessary to write scholarly proposals
- improve graduate advising about research support

REGISTRATION IS REQUIRED!!!

Space is limited, so early registration is highly recommended.

To register, e-mail your name, department, and phone number to Doreen Theune at dtheune@emory.edu no later than Friday, September 16, 2006. Please indicate in your e-mail that you are registering for the Faculty Grant Writing Workshop on September 22.

For more information, go to www.csps.emory.edu/GrantWritingWorkshops.htm

This workshop is organized by the Center for the Study of Public Scholarship and the Center for Humanistic Inquiry and is sponsored by Emory College.